

Gardens of Valence House

Don't get lost in the grass! Find your way around our green maze full of sights and smells to discover in the gardens at Valence House.

During World War II local families had air raid shelters in their gardens. Up to 6 people could squeeze inside for protection during an air raid.

The fruit of the medlar tree is unusual. Not so tasty if eaten right after being picked, they taste better when they have turned brown and soft after a few weeks.

↑
START